The divide and conquer paradigm is often used to find the optimal solution of a problem. Its basic idea is to decompose a given problem into two or more similar, but simpler, subproblems, to solve them in turn, and to compose their solutions to solve the given problem.

Overview. NP-complete problems are in NP, the set of all decision problems whose solutions can be verified in polynomial time; NP may be equivalently defined as the set of decision problems that can be solved in polynomial time on a non-deterministic Turing machine. A problem  $p$  in NP is NP-complete if every other problem in NP can be transformed (or reduced) into  $p$  in polynomial time.
