Spectral line shape describes the form of a feature, observed in spectroscopy, corresponding to an energy change in an atom, molecule or ion. Ideal line shapes include Lorentzian, Gaussian and Voigt functions, whose parameters are the line position, maximum height and half-width. Actual line shapes are determined principally by Doppler, collision and proximity broadening.

Circular dichroism (CD) is dichroism involving circularly polarized light, i.e., the differential absorption of left- and right-handed light. Left-hand circular (LHC) and right-hand circular (RHC) polarized light represent two possible spin angular momentum states for a photon, and so circular dichroism is also referred to as dichroism for spin angular momentum.

BU-802: What Causes Capacity Loss? Discover what causes a battery to fade. The energy storage of a battery can be divided into three sections known as the available energy that can instantly be retrieved, the empty zone that can be refilled, and the unusable part, or rock content, that has become inactive as part of use and aging. Figure 1 illustrates these three sections.
