The participants for this project were a group of four high school science teachers from a private, comprehensive, urban high school in Southern California (enrolment = 1150). The group included three men and one woman, all experienced teachers, ranging from 8 to 34 years in the profession. They represented three different subject areas—chemistry, biology, and physics (see Table 1).

A race is a grouping of humans based on shared physical or social qualities into categories generally viewed as distinct by society. First used to refer to speakers of a common language and then to denote national affiliations, by the 17th century the term race began to refer to physical (phenotypical) traits. Modern scholarship regards race as a social construct, that is, a symbolic identity ...

Social constructionism is a theory of knowledge in sociology and communication theory that examines the development of jointly constructed understandings of the world that form the basis for shared assumptions about reality. The theory centers on the notion that meanings are developed in coordination with others rather than separately within each individual.
