Department of Physics and Astronomy Arizona State University, Tempe, Arizona 85287-1504 This is an introduction to spacetime algebra(STA) as a unified mathematical language for physics. STA simplifies, extends and integrates the mathematical methods of classical, relativistic and quantum physics while elucidating geometric structure of the theory.

dimensional non-Euclidean geometry. Consequently, the practitioner of GR must be familiar with the fundamental geometrical properties of curved spacetime. In particular, the laws of physics must be expressed in a form that is valid independently of any coordinate system used to label points in spacetime.

Excellent for both physicists and mathematicians. Essentially a differential geometry textbook and how physics has motivated its development and is inherently connected to it. Starts with the basics of manifolds and continues into highly advanced, specialized topics with numerous applications to physics throughout.
